CCTV:

Cameras:

There are a variety of CCTV cameras available through Maxim Security and they range from internal mini dome cameras to external fully functional IP cameras. In short each system is unique in its own way and we will design each system to suit your specific needs. Each CCTV camera will be fitted with a suitable lens, some have them built-in and others need to be specified separately, again it depends on your specific needs.

If it is an external CCTV camera we will ensure that the correct housing is selected so that the camera is protected against the weather conditions and vandalism. All camera housings have their own bracket and there are a number of different options available from wall to pole mounted.

Monitors:

The picture quality on a security monitor is much higher than on a normal TV. This is especially important for viewing multiple camera images when using a video splitter.

For the highest image quality in your recorded video during playback, security monitors can show details that could never be seen on a TV.

We also offer flat screen, high resolution plasma and TFT screens for most sizes up to 50" for control rooms and operation centres.

Our Services

Recording:

It has become very important for our customers to select the correct recording equipment. Gone are the days of VHS cassette (although we still come across these) recording where if you had a 16 camera system and it recorded on a 3 hour VHS cassette over a 24 hour period, you only got about 0.25 frames per second. Compare that to the new Digital Video Recorders that give you a much improved recording solution and you achieve anything up to 25 frames per second (near studio quality) for live and recorded images.

This solution is previous generation technology and is being superseded by IP solutions where recording are kept on a secure server. This allows for excellent images and comfortable viewing for users (especially control room operators).

Maxim Security Ltd offers a wide range of quality recording solutions and we will select the best solution for your design.

Our Suppliers include the following:

Panasonic
JVC
Samsung
Genie

We partner with Anixter and Medway for the supply of these and other products.

Access Control:

Maxim Security Ltd offers a comprehensive range of access control systems ranging from single entry point, through to centrally controlled PC based systems and onto fully networked solutions

Our approach is to tailor a system exactly to a customer's requirements and we achieve this by offering a choice of manufacturers' products. This independent stance ensures that Maxim Security Ltd cannot only meet the customer's operational and technical needs, but also specify an overall solution that is within the client's' budget. We are committed to ensure that our customers have experienced and fully trained engineers available for the installation of their preferred solution. All our engineers will undergo a manufacturer training session.

We are also very clear on the importance of the door hardware which should be selected in line with the door and frame structure and to this effect we have a comprehensive choice of locking solutions including surface and mortise magnets, electric releases and electric locks.

We partner with the following manufacturers:

Nedap
S2 Net
Paxton
